TRANSLATING THE ANCIENT CRAFT OF STONE MASONRY INTO A MODERN VERNACULAR

In 1993, Ed and Mary Ann Westbrook co-founded QuarryHouse. With Marin County headquarters and two stone workshops, one in Richmond, California, and an atelier in Verona, Italy, they forge creative partnerships with top interior designers, architects, and builders. Renowned landscape architect Lawrence Halprin was one of QuarryHouse's early collaborators. Today, joined by the second generation of Westbrooks, Dillon, and Cassie, they continue the "Art of Legacy," translating the ancient craft of stone masonry into a modern vernacular.
